Ralston and Cox Withdraw But Without Result on Balloting

McADOO WITHIN TWENTY VOTES OF MAJORITY AS HIS HIGH MARK IS SET

Series of Skirmishes on Convention Floor Rekindles Animosity and Makes Compromise More Difficult—Smith Forces Start Trouble

Will Not Permit Speeches

Convention Votes Not to Let Candidates Address Assemblage—Growing Conviction That Balloting is Futile Under Present Lineup of Men

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 4.—Two Fourth of July sessions of the Democratic convention failed to produce a nominee for the presidency and tonight, at the end of 70 ballots, the party leaders began seriously to consider the administration of heroic measures to break the deadlock.

During the day two favorite sons had been eliminated, McAdoo had reached a new high record within 20 votes of a majority of the convention, Smith again had touched his high water mark, and a series of manoeuvres on the convention floor had rekindled the animosity of the warring groups and apparently made a compromise more difficult.

The floor skirmishing was started by the Smith forces, who first proposed in a formal resolution that all the candidates be invited to address the delegates in an executive session before there was further balloting. The proposal failed of the two-thirds needed for adoption, with the McAdoo forces voting against it, and later a proposal to invite Governor Smith alone to speak from the convention platform was similarly rejected.

Then, at the opening of the morning session, a letter from Mr. McAdoo was read, suggesting that the refusal to extend a speaking invitation to his principal rival be reconsidered, but when consent was asked for it was refused by the Smith men. Amid the tumult stirred up by the proposal the Smith supporters shouted to the chairman that the convention had "insulted" their candidate once and that it was too late now to smooth over the incident.

Compromise Nominee Suggested.

Nevertheless the leaders of the group which are outside both the McAdoo and Smith camps believed they might succeed tomorrow in convincing the managers for both candidates that further balloting would be futile under the present lineup and that the only hope of a decision was an agreement upon a compromise nominee.

Efforts were being made after tonight's adjournment to bring some of the principal supporters of the two leading contenders together in a conference with a single plan for compromise under consideration. Various compromise candidates were to be put forth in the conference should it be found possible to convince the conferees that neither McAdoo nor Smith can be nominated.

A second and entirely different plan to break the deadlock and release the convention from its embarrassing situation was under consideration in other quarters. Under this increased pressure would be brought to bear to drive out of the running the favorite sons who have locked up large reservoirs of voting strength which might otherwise go to the leaders.

Would Eliminate Weakest Men.

Several delegates have drafted formal resolutions for the elimination of such leading bolsters of those who have the fewest votes until only two or three remain. It seemed likely tonight that should tomorrow's balloting follow the inconclusive course of today's, a complete elimination plan would be put forward by the party chiefs, who believe that only by such drastic measures can a nominee be selected.

Two of the trailers in the voting, Senator Ralston of Indiana, and James M. Cox of Ohio, withdrew their names from consideration today but the result was negligible on the standards of the leaders. The 20 Indiana votes which have been going to Ralston were distributed, 20 to McAdoo and 10 to Smith, while Ohio's 40 votes fell solidly behind Newton D. Baker. Ralston and Cox both disappeared entirely from the later balloting, and although Smith picked up a few outside votes no state he made no substantial headway.

Five ballots were taken at the two sessions today and tonight and at the close McAdoo had 423, a record of one and a half votes from his high mark on the ballot preceding at adjournment last night. He had 497, Smith's strength at today's adjournment was 328, compared to 325, last night. All the others remained far behind.

RALSTON AND COX OUT OF MIXED STRUGGLE

highest he had mustered since the 55th ballot. It was, however, ten and a half short of his high water mark reached in the 40th ballot.

Conferees during recesses apparently had accomplished nothing, the day's sessions developments merely served to emphasize the deadlock and the convention reassembled wondering what the next move was going to be.

As the delegates assembled for the night session the band appropriately played, "It May Be For Years and It May Be Forever." The session came to order nearly on time and prayer was offered by the Rev. Paul F. Landis, minister of the John Hall Memorial of New York.

The first business of the session was the calling of the roll of states for the 67th ballot.

McAdoo Wants Smith to Speak.

Chairman Walsh then had read a communication from W. G. McAdoo. It was read by unanimous consent.

"The convention today voted quite properly against a proposal to invite all candidates to address it," the letter said. "Subsequently a proposal to invite the Governor of New York to address it was rejected by a vote of the convention."

Mr. McAdoo wrote he was sure the action was because of a disposition to conclude the business. But it concluded with a suggestion to his friends on the convention floor that they invite Governor Smith to make an address.

Gavin McNab, on behalf of the California delegation, asked that the vote by which the convention refused to invite Governor Smith be reconsidered. He proposed a unanimous consent that Governor Smith be invited to speak at 10 o'clock.

Meanwhile Michael Igou of Chicago, a Smith delegate, was recognized after which much shouting and distress. Chairman Walsh was wallowing the celebrated light headed gavel so vigorously that the head of it flew off again and this time it bounced on the head of a man standing immediately below the speaker's stand. A policeman and a delegate supported the victim while he remained his senses and said his name was Herman Schoenstern, of New York, chairman of the 23rd district committee.

Out of the storm of shouting, gestulating and howling which followed McAdoo's motion followed demands for the regular order, which the chairman sustained, and the clerk was ordered to go on with the roll call. The call of the 67th ballot disclosed that in Florida Davis took one vote heretofore given to Ralston. Michigan gave seven and a half votes each to Underwood, Davis, McAdoo and Smith. McAdoo lost one in Nebraska and gave it to Governor Bryan. North Carolina took a half from Underwood and gave it to Davis. West Virginia, Pennsylvania took one from McAdoo and one vote from Underwood and gave it to Davis. In South Dakota McAdoo again got the single vote which has been going to Chairman Walsh and in Connecticut Smith gained a half, while McAdoo lost one and a half and Davis gained one.

Underwood Forever.

While the balloting was going on the shouts went over the floor to learn if there was any disposition to withdraw on the part of Robinson, Spaulding, Baker, Davis, Owen, Glass or Underwood. Governor Underwood seemed to sum up the sentiment when he shouted with indignation "Leave Underwood!" We will be here voting for him when they all have gone.

Favorite Sons Remain in Race.

Senator Robinson of Indiana, withdrawing from the race, was quickly followed by James M. Cox of Ohio. The latter probably was that the line of favorite sons which has been following quite a vote might follow him.

There was a challenge on the vote of Tennessee and under the rule of C. M. Brown of Memphis was accepted for five minutes to explain why the majority in Tennessee endorsed the unit rule does not apply. It was his contention that a convention could not bind a delegate further than a platform, and that each delegate was responsible to his own constituents. Each individual delegate was free to vote his own conscience. Mr. Brown contended.

Governor Davis followed Mr. Brown, contending for the application of the unit rule.

On the 67th ballot the leaders stood as follows:

McAdoo 423, Smith 328, Davis 61, Underwood 22, Ralston 20, Cox 10, Baker 40, Owen 10, Glass 10, Spaulding 10, Robinson 10, McNab 10, Igou 10, Schoenstern 10, and others.

Patterson, N. J., July 4.—Charles M. ### YOUNG COOLIDGE IS SERIOUSLY ILL

Washington, July 4.—Serious illness again entered the White House today when Calvin Coolidge, Jr., younger son of President and Mrs. Coolidge, developed an acute case of septic poisoning.

The boy, who is 16 years of age, became ill yesterday and late last night his condition became alarming. Five physicians were called for consultation and it was determined that poisoning resulting from a broken blister on the right foot suffered during a tennis match, had spread through his system. Another consultation late today was followed by the announcement that the condition, previously described as "serious," was unchanged but that the patient was doing "as well as could be expected at this stage."

Mrs. Coolidge is in constant attendance at the bedside and the President, after keeping a speaking engagement this morning before the National Education association, remained in the White House the rest of the day.

The illness developed during a tennis match young Calvin played last Monday with his brother, John, 15 years of age. Little attention was given by the boy to the aggravation at first but yesterday he complained of aches and pains in the foot. Physicians were summoned and the serious nature of the illness was learned.

Madison Square Garden, New York, July 4.—Herman Schoenstern, of the New York delegation, was floored tonight when he was struck on the head by Chairman Walsh's gavel as it flew off the handle and bounced into the delegate space in the Democratic convention.

LA FOLLETTE WILL BE AN INDEPENDENT CANDIDATE, HE SAYS

He disclosed this intention in opposition to immediate formation of a new party in a message to the conference for Progressive Political Action, in session here.

At Least 500 Delegates and Alternates Have Checked Out of New York Hotels and Left for Their Homes

Some of them have come perilously near to going broke in their futile efforts to stick it out; others have simply become homesick or weary of the endless affair, and still others have hurried home in order to spend the Fourth of July with their families.

Practically all the folks from out yonder who came along with friends or relatives just for the fun of the thing have quit. There remain probably about 1,500 accredited delegates and alternates who have the necessary stamina, financial and physical, to hang on a while longer; and the ranks of these are being thinned out daily.

Several hotels report confidentially cases of delegates or alternates who find themselves unable to pay their hotel bills, and are merely hanging on until reserve funds can be rushed up to take them out of back. Much of the activities of the various state entertainment committees these days consist of devising means to supply money for delegates who have gone broke under the strain. Many delegates are being entertained in private homes, and others have been removed to rooming houses and are eating in one-arm lunch rooms in order to preserve their diminishing bank rolls.

New York, July 4.—At least 500 of the delegates and alternates who came to New York early last week to attend the National Democratic convention have given up the convention, checked out of their hotel rooms and shaken the dust of New York off their feet in a hurried dash for back home.

THE WALL AGAINST JAPAN

There are probably few Americans who do not regret the trouble stirred up in Japan by the new immigration law. A normal American does not want to wound the sensibilities of any self-respecting people. And whatever differences of opinion this country or any part of it has had with Japan, and whatever resentment may have been felt at times regarding the attitude of the Japanese, the fact stands out that the Americans do respect the Japanese and regret having to discriminate against them.

As for the discrimination itself, that is inevitable. The manner might vary, but the matter admits of no variation. Nature herself has built a wall between the two races, and American policy has built a wall between the two races, and American policy and law only acknowledge that wall.

It is clear that the two racial stocks and cultures cannot merge as Caucasian races merge. Neither is necessarily superior, but the two are fundamentally different. And behind the Japanese, present leaders of the yellow race, are hundreds of millions of other fellow folk who might pour into this continent if the stream were once started.

There is at stake also the fundamental right to determine whom we shall admit to our house, as guest or resident or member of the national family. Uncle Sam's house is his castle. There is no more acid test of sovereignty. Japan herself possesses exactly the same right—and exercises it, with respect to the Chinese who are nearer to the Japanese in blood and culture than the Japanese are to us.

JAZZ FASSES.

New York theatrical producers and restaurateurs say the jazz craze has reached its peak and started to decline. Thus the most remarkable period in the history of American music approaches an end.

There are plenty of evidences. There is no jazz band in the new "Ziegfeld Follies," and the great showman who produces that show doubtless knows what he is doing. One of the worst failures of the present theatrical season has been that of a musical show which featured a famous jazz band. Restaurant patrons show their weariness of jazz, too, in many ways and many places. Paul Whiteman, most noted artist of them all, is giving up playing for restaurants and cabarets and planning concert tours with professional jazz.

This is natural. Blatant noise cannot be endured forever, especially when it comes from all points of the compass all the time. There are elements of genuine musical merit in jazz, particularly its infectious rhythms, and these will doubtless be retained, softened and blended with other features. The softening and blending process is observable right now. But, thank Heaven, the cowbells, calf-bawls, trombone wails and other ear-splitting and hair-raising barbarities will be eliminated for good.

POLITICAL OVER-PRAISE.

A reporter covering the New York convention believes that he could improve the technique of convention oratory.

"If I had the job of making a nominating speech," he says, "I would take pains to point out the weaknesses of my man as well as his virtues. He could then be made, I think, a figure far more appealing than any of the knights in shining armor described by the other nominating orators."

It sounds reasonable. The typical nominating speech in any political convention is so lachrymose and unpromising in its praise of the speaker's candidate that it must be patiently absorbed by any but the most ardent followers. Even political leaders are not gods, and seldom demigods. They are human beings; and it is a common observation that men are loved and followed for their more or less amiable weaknesses almost as much as for their heroic virtues. The technique of the nominating speech, in spite of all their play-acting on the convention floor, the reading and listening public knows it better still.

At least, why not tell the candidates good points as they are, and then stop?

THE ISSUE UNCERTAIN.

After ten days of deliberation, it is still uncertain whether for five of these days of actual balloting for candidates, the Democratic National convention adjourned last night until this morning, to continue the task of breaking the deadlock. From the beginning McAdoo has had the largest vote, one which has been large enough, being more than a third, to prevent the naming of any other candidate under the two-thirds rule which obtains in National assemblies of that party. The Smith vote, however, has been steadily increasing, backed a little last evening by being a third of the whole, and thus of being large enough to interfere with the election of any other candidate, even if all the others should swing to the support of McAdoo or any other candidate. Still, in any general break-up of the present groups, it is probable that enough of the Smith vote would go to Smith to make the necessary third.

With two candidates, therefore, also either of them to outstep a vote on the choice of the convention, the issue remains so much in doubt that it is impossible with any certainty to predict the issue. Moreover, the fight between Smith and McAdoo in the election of the next president.

NEWSPAPER CLIPPINGS

"Loud Speaker" Kicks Out.

The "loud speaker," which amplifies the voice of the orator so that it carries over to the remotest parts of an auditorium so vast as Madison Square Garden, has one startling defect. It makes all voices sound nearly alike. The tones of pathos and tragedy are lost because they get their quality from the metal receivers. The magnification of the speaker, therefore, is neutralized and the audience is tempted to follow his reasoning rather than his gestures and his sonorous phrases.

If this is true of the "loud speaker," it is still more true of the radio, except in speeches where the "loud speaker" is not used, when the voice becomes recognizable. But in listening over the radio the hearer or moue influence is lost and the hearer is either bored or openly skeptical. The radio will not transmit personal magnetism.—Wall Street Journal.

YOUR HUNDRED PER CENT

You have seen a strong man give an exhibition of his strength and agility, and have likely considered him as a hundred per cent man. His muscles stood out on his entire body like the "village blacksmith's arm."

You have then beheld a strong little ratty boxer, like Dempsey or Carpenter, with less muscle and perhaps a light covering of flesh over some of the muscular parts.

You say to yourself, "Well, Dempsey and Carpenter are hundred per cent, and yet there's a difference."

Then again you see a light, wiry chap of one hundred and fifty pounds who can do an all around hard day's labor without fatigue, and you feel that he must be a hundred per cent man.

As a matter of fact you are right in all these cases, because you can only compare the present condition of each of these types of men with what their body can do when it is at its best.

Now what about you?

Are you one hundred per cent?

You may have a strong body and be capable of a hard day's work, but you have a kink in your shoulder or a pain in a joint.

Perhaps you have to be extremely careful about your diet.

An aching tooth or a throat that gives you trouble may be your portion. It may be that toward evening you feel a little tired, more tired than you think you should be for your age, or for the amount of work you have done.

Now you are in pretty good shape physically and yet you know in your heart you are not your one hundred per cent.

The optimist who thinks nothing can ever be seriously wrong with him, or the pessimist who imagines all sorts of ailments, can both be wrong in their estimate of the percentage of health they possess.

So take a look into your own condition. If you are not really your hundred per cent, why not go after it? Having to be of a great age may be all right, but having your hundred per cent now is what counts.

months that it does not seem possible for either Smith or McAdoo to be nominated. In that event, and with so many other candidates still in the field, the balance may be in the hands of the electors. The electors, each having a vote of one vote, will have to choose between the two candidates.

Certain it is that each new roll call added to the list of ones previous does not seem to be getting the convention anywhere, and it is very many believed that a majority of the electors will be in the hands of the electors.

TWENTY AND THIRTY YEARS AGO

Days of Old Revisited by Items Clipped from The Star Files.

July 5, 1904.

William P. Abbott had the ligaments of his right hand torn and the member badly burned by the explosion of a big cannon cracker, which he picked up, supposing the fuse would not burn.

Dr. J. D. Ogden, who for the past two years has been engaged as an assistant at the dental office of Dr. Arthur B. Barnes, retired from that August 1 and will, after a few weeks of recreation, open dental offices at Binghamton, his home.

Many Oneontans went out of town yesterday, July 4. About 100 went to East Meredith and some to Afton to celebrate. Others went to Otsego park, Otsego lake, Cooperstown, and into the woods to spend the day. The baseball games drew many and there were several lawn parties and picnics.

In all probability there was not a happier, jollier crowd of men celebrating the Fourth than the ten or eleven old Otsego boys who gathered around the festive board of Hotel Breeze in that town and told stories of their boyhood days. Several had not seen each other in over 20 years. Those present were: Vance M. Smith of Boston, Mass.; James B. Hunt of Cortland; Miles Smith of Binghamton; John B. Smith of Springfield, Mass.; J. G. McKinnon of Ausable Forks; Theodore W. Snyder of Oneonta; T. J. Smith of Altamont; George N. Carr of Auburn; Frank A. Jennings of Ithaca; P. R. Jennings; Dr. James Cosmari and George Hall, all of Otsego.

July 5, 1891.

Charles A. Scott of Cooperstown, formerly of Oneonta, has passed his examinations before the United States board of pharmacy.

Cards have been received in Oneonta announcing the marriage on July 3 at Afton of Jane Isabella Seelyer, Normal '93, to Dan Jennings. The bicycle races July 4 under the auspices of the Otsego Wheel club were well attended, the half-mile race being won by C. E. Bird of Sidney, the mile open race by A. B. Curtis of Sidney who also won the half mile and championship in 1917.

Owing to spirited rivalry, Otsego lake steamboat fares are very low. July 3 rate was 25 cents for a round trip and 20 cents is now announced.

John Muller of West Oneonta, in order to celebrate the Fourth, bought a small dynamite cartridge. Before he reached home it exploded, badly tearing the flesh of one leg and also shattering coat and pants.

BIG STAMFORD CELEBRATION

Thousands attracted to Catskill Mountain Resort for the Fourth. While Others Arriving for the Summer Receive Demonstrative Welcome.

Stamford-in-the-Catskills, July 4.—This section of the Catskill mountains drew thousands over the Fourth of July and the week-end as well as summer residents arriving early for the big Independence day exhibition held in Stamford. Fairly good weather prevailed in the morning so the ball game could be played, clearing in the afternoon, dance, carnival and fireworks sports, the evening at the Country club.

The ball game in the morning drew a large audience. Stamford winning its first game of the season from the Pittsford Professionals by the score of 5 to 1. Further mention of this game appears in other columns of this issue of The Star.

The water sports program in the afternoon drew a big crowd to the swimming pool conducted by the Rexmere club and Churchill hall. The feature of the afternoon was little "Jackie" Ott, who gave a demonstration of riding on an aquaplane.

THE GUIDE POST—BY Henry and Tertius VanDyke

FOREIGN WIVES

All these had taken foreign wives, and some of them had wives by whom they had children.—Extra, 10:14.

Here is a curious case. The Jews of the captivity, returning by permission of the great king Cyrus to restore and rebuild their homeland and rebuild Jerusalem, were mainly men.

Quite naturally they fell in love with the women of the land in which they were working, and married them, and had children by them.

This was contrary to the ancient tradition that the Jews must be a nation set apart, a peculiar people.

So Ezra commanded that all these foreign marriages should be annulled. It was probably the biggest divorce decree on record.

As a national policy it may have been prudent.

But what I want to know is, what became of the wives who had married in good faith, and the children who had been born without being consulted?

Would Christ have approved this casting off of the innocent? I dare say it is a fine thing. It is best to marry one of your own kind.

But it is better still to your promises and to meet your responsibilities like a man of honor.

Can you correct a fault by committing a crime?

Overflow Audiences in Four Parks Listen to N. Y. Convention Speeches

Listening crowd in front of New York City Hall

THE first portable Democratic National Convention was held in City Hall Park, and in Washington Square, as well as in Madison Square—all historic spots of New York City—where crowds listened to the orations and ovations just as if they were present with the delegates. The proceedings were picked up by radio and amplified by means of Public Address Systems, manned by Western Electric amplificationists.

Square Garden enabled that audience to hear the convention anywhere that a record was set.

BODY OF MURDERED WOMAN FOUND AT SCHUYLerville

Schuylerville, July 4. — The partially decomposed body of Mrs. William T. Smith, 45, was found in her home on the outskirts of the village tonight by her husband when he returned from his work at Hudson Falls to spend the week-end. The skull had been crushed and a butcher knife thrust through the abdomen. The coroner said the woman apparently had been dead since Monday.

Doors and windows of the house were locked, authorities said, with the exception of a rear window which was open. Investigation of the room of John Wilson, a lodger, disclosed a blood stained handkerchief and articles of clothing, the authorities declared, and inquiry immediately was turned to Wilson. It was found he had been arrested Monday night on charges of intoxication and disorderly conduct and had been sentenced to the county jail for six months. It was planned to question him in the morning.

Purchase Original Halfert Farm

Samuel Halfert, of Johnson City, has purchased of Will Peabody the old Aet Halfert farm on West Hill. This is the original Halfert farm, upon which the family burying ground, where several generations of the Halfert family are buried. Mr. Halfert owns the farm adjoining the one owned by his father, E. E. Halfert. The dwelling house on the latter farm was burned several years ago. Both farms comprise 300 or more acres of land and were money makers for their owner's years ago.

Good Pennies Turn Up

While digging in his garden, a mile east of Troy, Lester O. Hathaway uncovered a penny bearing the date of 1825. The penny was badly corroded, but upon cleaning it, the date could easily be read. The coin is larger than the penny of today, just about the size of a half dollar.

Recently while B. S. Disbrow was working in his garden he unearthed a penny bearing the date of 1826, and in a good state of preservation. The date and all reading matter were clearly discernible.—Tribune News.

LATEST VICINITY NOTES

Recent Important Happenings in the Vicinity of Oneonta and Surrounding Area.

At a special meeting of the Schenectady county board of supervisors, held last Monday, the plans for the Schenectady-Cobleskill state highway were approved, the board consenting to an extra width of two feet.

More than 100 children are enrolled in the vacation bible school which opened at Cobleskill on Monday. The children are from four to fourteen years of age. All departments are being held in the Methodist church, as the Lutheran church is undergoing repairs.

The business men of Cobleskill to the number of fifty have organized a Merchants' association. L. A. Hodge is president and C. L. Ryder, secretary and treasurer.

Mrs. Eve Hollinger, of Schenectady, celebrated her 95th birthday on June 28. In the course of her life she had seen the Mexican, Civil, Spanish and World wars. Her health is good and she hopes to see more birthdays but not more wars. She has four surviving daughters, all of whom were with her on her birthday.

The town of Schenectady was formerly the proud possessor of a truck used in highway work. Today it possesses title only to the machine. The truck itself having disappeared in the brief interval since it had been used. Suspensions "popped" and arrest is "contingent," but nothing has as yet turned up.

At present the demand for the products of the acid factories is light. The factory at Cobleskill is carrying a large stock of acetate, alcohol and charcoal, for which there appears to be no market. Most of the men at Cobleskill are kept busy making repairs and changes in the annual clean-up.

The Orange County brewery at Midway is now in operation for one year for violating the prohibition laws.

One of the most unusual accidents on record occurred recently when Ernest L. Westlake of Newburgh was injured by the explosion of his glass eye, while seated at his desk. The flying particles of glass severely lacerated the cavity and he is still under treatment. Oculists say several similar cases are on record.

Reports were received last week that the New York, New Haven & Hartford was seriously considering applying to the Interstate Commerce commission for permission to sell its holdings of New York, Ontario & Western stock, amounting to 291,000 shares.

MRS. RUTH BRYAN OWEN

Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen is too vivid a personality to write about; she is one of the few people who can never be "put into words." The daughter of William Jennings Bryan, she refused to bask in reflected glory and solely through her own merits she has become one of the most popular lecturers ever to cover a Chautauque circuit.

Mrs. Bryan is the wife of a British army officer, Major Reginald Owen. She has lived for many years abroad, in London, in the West Indies, in Egypt. When General Allenby's forces marched into Jerusalem Mrs. Owen was there. She acted as a war nurse with the British troops in Egypt, and went on from there, with the army, to Palestine where she saw the Holy City wrested from the grasp of the Turk.

"Modern Arabian Knights" is the subject of Mrs. Bryan's address. As might be expected of the daughter of so distinguished a father, her keen powers of observation are enhanced by her gift of ready words, and her informal but gracious manner. She will lecture on the fourth night of the Redpath Chautauque.

For Hot Day

Just the thing for a hot day, isn't it? A straight line frock with practically no sleeves and an easy neck, and then a huge bow at the waist. This frock is of plaid voile in brown and tan. The cotton materials of this season come in really excellent designs and colors, quite as gorgeous as silk and in very similar patterns, and they are made up on the same simple but good lines that the expensive materials follow. Such a frock as this one can be made easily in a day and the cost of the material is very low. In it one can get as near to comfort as the thermometer will permit.

THE FOURTH AT TREADWELL

eloquent Address by Captain J. A. Judge — Chicken Dinner Par Excellence — Good Band Music and Interesting Ball Game.

Captain J. A. Judge of Chapin church of this city gave the people of Treadwell and vicinity a fine patriotic address at the celebration staged by the church people of that village. He appealed to them to be as patriotic as in the days of the Revolution, as in the stress of war and to be keen to the problems of the day with his eloquent address. Music for the day was furnished by the Lehigh Concert band which last evening gave a pleasing concert in Odd Fellows' hall to a large throng.

At noon the Ladies' Aid society of the church, served a most appealing and satisfying chicken dinner, one such as all familiar with the culinary ability of the housewives of the community might expect. The ladies served a larger throng than on any previous occasion and despite that, fed all comers, even some who arrived late most satisfactorily. The attendance was large, there being many former residents from other places present, including Oneonta, which sent a good delegation.

In the afternoon after the dinner there was a ball game between a picked nine from Oneonta and the Treadwell team with "Pop" Bell in the box for the home team and Owen, twirling for Oneonta. It looked like a swifter in the first two innings, but thereafter the teams got settled and many good plays were seen and an interesting game resulted.

The box score followed:

FARMERS ARRESTED FOR BOOTLEGGING

Rochester Men Are Charged With Bringing in Ale From Canada by Boat

Rochester, July 4. — Two farmers of Payne Beach, 13 miles northwest of Rochester, were arrested yesterday by Customs Collector Andrew Wendenmann and 200 cases of Canadian ale were confiscated. The ale, according to alleged admissions made by the two, had just been unloaded from a steamer that brought the liquid across Lake Ontario.

Bert Post and his son-in-law, Walter Quinn, the two arrested, are being held in jail here. Their relatives appeared at the federal building with money for bail, but the United States commissioners could not be found and they cannot be released in bail until arraigned on bootlegging charges before a commissioner.

Half of the ale was found in Quinn's cellar, the rest, loaded aboard a truck, was found in Post's apple orchard when pursued by hi-jackers. Three expensive automobiles and another truck, appearing to be ready to take aboard ale from Quinn's cellar, disappeared as the customs men approached and escaped in the darkness.

How Nature, the master chemist, gives you an "anti-knock" gasoline

Stop motor knocks this natural way, without paying a premium for your gasoline

FOR years, science searched for the formula of a gasoline that would not "knock." Chemists experimented in the greatest laboratories of the country. Hundreds of blended or compounded gasolines were produced in an effort to stop—by artificial means—the knocks that steal your power, pound your bearings, rack your car and lead to big repair bills.

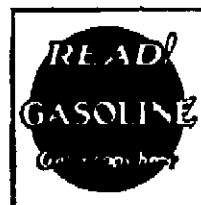

But Nature, the master chemist, had already solved the problem. In underground laboratories, using a perfectly balanced formula, Nature produced a crude petroleum oil that is different from any other. From this crude it is possible to refine a gasoline having natural "anti-knock" qualities. Engineers and chemists have proved in unnumbered laboratories and road tests that this gasoline eliminates motor knocking—and does it in a natural way.

Tydol stops knocking this natural way

Tydol Economy Gasoline is refined, by special processing, from this crude petroleum oil, and is only made at the Tide Water refinery, Bayonne, N. J. Tydol is, therefore, a natural "anti knock" gasoline. Extreme care in refining makes it superior in other respects as well. Tydol not only stops knocks, but gives uniform high quality—more power and the most mileage.

And best of all, Tydol costs no more than ordinary gasoline. Next time you need gasoline, fill up at a Tydol pump.

TYDOL Economy Gasoline

Scientific tests prove TYDOL a natural "anti-knock" gasoline

"Knocking" in an engine is caused by the gasoline mixture in the combustion chamber, exploding too quickly, or too violently.

There is no "knock" if the mixture burns progressively, with steadily accelerating power until, with a mighty follow-through, it delivers maximum power at the end of the piston stroke.

By means of the Midgley Indicator, a remarkable scientific instrument, we are able to record photographically the progress of an explosion in the combustion chamber, and show the contrast between the explosion of ordinary gasoline and of Tydol.

The graph above shows the explosion of an ordinary gasoline. The jagged points indicate the violent, uneven burning which causes destructive motor knocks.

This graph shows the combustion of Tydol gasoline. Note the smooth, even curve which denotes progressive combustion, which means no chance of any tendency to "knock."

These authoritative tests prove Tydol's natural "anti-knock" gasoline.

Note: Tydol, of course, will not eliminate knocking in motors which have serious mechanical defects.

The visitors had a long motor ride to keep their engagement of yesterday and doubtless will make a better showing today, as the team has a good record against some of the best semi-professionals in their own state and eastern New York. The game on Sunday with the Ogdons of Watervliet has been cancelled.

THEN FIREWORKS STARTED

Part of fireworks supply of Lam-bros Billiard Parlor Ignited Accidently Yesterday—Many Spectators Attracted.

Little damage was done, but considerable fireworks were exhibited yesterday afternoon in front of the Lam-bros billiard parlor, 156 Main street, when one of the stands of that firm from which fireworks were being sold became accidentally ignited. Sky rockets, Roman candles, and firecrackers shot in all directions and it seemed as if some queer sort of machine gun was being demonstrated.

Several of the pieces shot across Main street and hit the windows of the Oneonta Department store, however without injury to the glass with the exception of a basement window of reinforced glass, which was considerably shattered.

A baby carriage standing near the counter was burned but the damage was only slight, the biggest part being in the merchandise which was lost, lost but not forgotten.

There were a number of persons standing near the scene at the time, but all found places of safety and no one was injured.

The property, which is for many reasons the most valuable commercially of any on the lake, is 80 by 135 feet, and in addition owns the right secured from the Otsego lake transit company, in connection with the docks are located. In connection with the sale the Transit company has leased the property until October 1.

It is understood that Mr. Byard has associated with himself D. E. Eyles and other gentlemen of this city, and that the property will be managed by a corporation to be known as the Oneonta Amusement company.

KIDNAPERS' ARRIVAL DELAYED

Owing to Holiday Tribune Fresh Air Manpower Unable to Assemble There Until Wednesday.

Chairman C. C. Miller of the Rotary Fresh Air committee received a message yesterday from the Tribune Fresh Air fund in New York stating that owing to the fact that so many of the workers are absent for the holiday and the week-end, it will be an impossibility to collect the kiddies that are to come to this section for a two weeks stay at the city Monday next in accordance with the arrangement that had been made. He was asked if it would be agreeable to forward them on Wednesday, July 31st, and to wire answer at once.

Mr. Miller assumed that the friends who have consented to care for the kiddies and give them an outing in God's country where sunshine and fresh air are as free as the Maker intended them to be, would arrange to care for them on the later date and forwarded a message requesting that the 127 children requested be sent on the later date now named.

The committee will endeavor to pass the word to all hosts-to-be, it is hoped that all will pass the word to others who are expecting children on Monday that none be inconvenienced by the necessity for delay. Much of the work of selecting and collecting the children to go into the country is done by volunteer workers and they cannot be criticized if they seek a day or two in the country for themselves.

Additional names of hosts for the children received by Mr. Miller since the last report are: George W. Ingalls, 145 East street; J. Maud Hester, Schenectady; J. Mrs. E. E. Campbell, Schenectady; J. This brings the total number to 127, which is considerably in excess of the number entertained last summer, when 103 children came.

BOYS SAVED MANY LIVES

Three Oneonta Lads Directed by W. H. Hoffman Perform Valiant Service and Cause Much Merriment.

Three Oneonta lads, Frank Miller, son of Mrs. Elizabeth L. Miller; Duncan Briggs, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Briggs; and Wesley Hoffman, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Hoffman, all well known in this city, have been suggested as candidates for life saving medals (of crepe paper) for some other suitable material) for the valiant service they rendered yesterday on Main street when they perhaps saved the life of hosts of motorists who were in peril from a giant dynamite firecracker. The boys were directed in their work by W. H. Hoffman, county supervisor from this city, at other times proprietor of the cleaning establishment that bears his name, and he should come in for his full share of praise.

The three boys on numerous occasions yesterday halted motorists who were approaching the giant cracker, from perilous positions nearer to the worker of ruin and held them until a small cracker placed in the top of the giant dynamite cracker had fizzed its small charge of powder.

If any in Oneonta had a better time over the Fourth than the three small boys and the bigger one, it is safe to assume that those who spent a considerable time watching the fun could lay first claim.

COBLESKILL PLANT CLOSED.

Announcement of the permanent closing of the Julius Kayser and company glove factory at Cobleskill is made by Manager D. J. Row upon the authority of a statement received Monday from the general manager of the concern at Brooklyn.

Closing the factory here was decided upon last week, at a meeting of directors of the company. Several other manufacturing plants of the concern will also close.

The Cobleskill factory is now being dismantled and the machinery and equipment will be sent to Sidney for storage.

Elimination of the factories of the company at Sidney, Oneonta, Amsterdam, Cobleskill and other places is said to be the result of business conditions, the silk glove industry being at present almost nothing compared with its best years of the past. The factory here, when operating at full capacity, has employed more than 100 people. It has been practically closed for several weeks.

Visiting in Franklin.

Edwin S. Barnes, a brother of Dr. Arthur S. Barnes, who years ago was a resident of Oneonta and an embryo architect at the time but who since has attained to a high standing in that profession in New York, is visiting among old friends at Franklin. He was in attendance at the celebration of Independence at Treadwell yesterday, greeting old friends.

What's Eating Us?

We are told that America is a land of opportunity, with peaches and cream. Even so; but many of us fall into the hands of cunning sharpers who take our money and put it in the hands of disreputable, who would make others thrifty and distrustful things generally. It's getting dangerous and those who can see a hole in a ladder had better help me in my grand co-operative plan of making the little fellows lonesome dollar earn as much as the rich man's dollar, with some safety and to also receive some and some on easy terms and so that real money pays for them, under wise state laws and supervision. I could tell you a lot more about the grand work that I am unselfishly doing, but haven't time, and what's the use, as so many of us follow the old saying, viz: "Everybody's business is nobody's business." A stitch in time saves nine. Good day. I'm in the Oneonta Building and Loan association and am now starting a new big bunch to easily and safely make good.

CATCHES FLEEING MOTORIST

Floyd Benjamin, 2 Beuna Vista avenue, this city, reported at police headquarters last evening the chase of a motorist who rammed his car and then tried to run off without making himself known. Mr. Benjamin plans to start a prosecution of a man, driver of a car with the New York license of 196-812, who said that he was Harold Crawford of Youngs.

According to the report of Benjamin, he was driving toward Oneonta yesterday afternoon when he was rammed near the Crandall crossing by a motorist approaching him from the direction of Oneonta. The man kept his car moving toward Otego and Benjamin turned his machine around and started in pursuit. He passed the man on the Otego side of the crossing, and slowed up in the middle of the road in an attempt to bring the man to a stop, but the man, who gave the name of Crawford, ran by him on the wrong side of the road.

The pursuit lasted until in the village of Otego Benjamin forced Crawford into the ditch and leaped to the side of his car from his own. He then grabbed Crawford by the neck and forced him to halt. He then secured the name of the man and the number of his car license.

It is expected that Crawford will be arrested this morning on the complaint of Benjamin.

The closing incident at Otego was witnessed by many attending the festivities there, to whom the chase appeared a thrilling climax of a time celebration.

POLICE DEPARTMENT WINS

In Spite of Fact That No Community Celebration was Held Yesterday, An Officer Catches the Pig.

In spite of the fact that no community celebration of the Fourth was held in Oneonta yesterday, the police department showed that had it been entered in any of the pig catching contests throughout the county it would have won easily. When such a contest is held, some one is bound to win, when 2 men win without the contest, he may be considered especially good.

The name of the officer who caught the pig on Broad street is an official secret, but that one of them did may be ascertained by any who will take the trouble to visit headquarters. The pig is registered among the arrests, being held to the coming of a representative of the institution from which he escaped.

The police department also found a cord truck tire at the corner of Main and Chestnut streets Thursday evening, and the owner may recover his property by proving ownership at police headquarters.

Sidney Bees on "Covered Wagon"

"The Covered Wagon," now showing in Oneonta but which will be in Sidney on Monday next, got an incidental boost last Tuesday in the way of advertising, when a swarm of bees, looking for a new home, alighted on the big sign of the coming show in front of Smalley's Sidney theatre. Frank W. Howe, a Sidney man who knows a lot about bees, lived the swarm, which according to the Sidney Record, contained 52,467 bees, and the editor was doubtless the Bird.

VERDICT IN COATS ACTION

Justice Hill Hands Down Verdict for Eviction, United Presbyterian Congregation, in Action of Jeanne Coates.

One of the three cases of Mrs. Jeanne Coates of this city against the congregation of the United Presbyterian church growing out of her eviction from the house at 21 Dietz street, the property of the church, some time ago, has been decided in favor of the defendant by Justice Hill, but it is understood that an appeal will be taken by the attorney for Mrs. Coates, John G. Johnson of this city. In addition to the three cases of Mrs. Coates against the church, there is one against Stephen Kimball of this city, a deputy sheriff, for damages, growing out of his participation in her eviction.

The case in which Justice Hill has rendered his decision was one for damages in the amount of $26.50 for unlawful eviction. The case was tried at the May term of Otego county supreme court and at the conclusion of the trial both attorneys, Donald H. Grant of this city, and Adrian A. Pearson, of Cooperstown, for the church and Mr. Johnson, for the church and Mr. Coates, moved that Justice Hill give the decision in view of the many complicated legal questions to be decided.

Mr. Grant in commenting on the case yesterday said that the verdict was one which he expected, but nevertheless gratifying to him and his client.

When Mr. Johnson was questioned about the decision last evening he said that he had received no notification of the verdict, but that if one had been rendered in favor of the defendant, for his client he would positively state that an appeal would immediately be instituted.

The case is one well known to residents of this vicinity and readers of The Star. Mrs. Coates contested her eviction from the property claiming a verbal lease with Robert Hall for the church, since that time the case, or cases, have been in the courts.

THE COUNTY BANKERS.

Otego Association Meets Today at Country Club for Summer Conference.

The mid-year meeting of the Bankers' association of Otego county will be held this afternoon at the Oneonta Country club house, which for several years has been the place of the summer gatherings. The banquet, which it is expected will be attended by representatives of every bank in the county, is set for 1:30 o'clock, previous to which time there will be opportunity for the social hour, which will end at 12:30.

Following the dinner, which will be served in the club house, there will be an address by W. Randolph Burgess, economist for the Federal Reserve bank of the second district, who will speak on matters of interest to the membership.

The Wilber National Bank.

This institution completed fifty years of service in Oneonta on June 12, 1924, and have for distribution an anniversary booklet showing familiar scenes and historical facts about Oneonta; also showing the growth of the bank to nearly three and one-half millions of dollars in deposits, and a capital and surplus of over seven hundred thousand dollars, which is also shown in their report in another column. Read this report and ask or write for the booklet, which will be cheerfully furnished whether you are a customer of this bank or not.

Patriotic Entertainment and Social.

When last seen Hobson was looking for George Prentiss, and other leaders to prevent the plan and a delegate with tired feet who heard of the plan was starting a Hobson-for-President boom.
